

Which prediction? Whose prediction?

Make a prediction about one of the things below without saying which one it is until your partner guesses which one you are talking about

Inflation

Property prices

Economic growth

GDP

Your hair

Your weight

Your finances

The end of human life on Earth

Humans living on the moon/ Mars/ outside the solar system

Your happiness

Air pollution

Number of cars

Number of university students

Standard of education

Young people

Crime

People's morals

Computers

Movies

Working hours

Unemployment

Age of retirement

Pensions

Choose another thing that isn't on the list and do the same thing

Choose one of the people below and give some typical predictions that they would say until your partner guesses who you are pretending to be

A palm reader

A stockbroker

Someone reading tarot cards

Someone analysing your blood type and that of your boyfriend or girlfriend

Liberals/ socialists/ left wingers

Conservatives/ Tories/ right wingers

Futurologists

A political analyst

An incorrigible pessimist

An incorrigible optimist

An insurance salesman

Someone involved in a pyramid selling scheme

A cosmetics ad

A daughter describing her fiancé's plans and prospects to her parents

Indulgent parents (= parents who spoil you)

A nagging mother

Parents who are ambitious for their children

Parents who want their children to do what they couldn't

You are going to listen to a mother and father talking about their child's plans. What are their child's plans and what do they think about it?