

IELTS-style presentations on cultural differences

Choose one of the cards below and make notes about what you want to say. You have two minutes to prepare.

Give a one or two minute mini-presentation about something that is okay in your culture but (probably) not okay in other places.

You should say:

- What the thing is
- What people's reactions to it might be
- Why it varies by country
- How important it is

And anything else that is relevant

Give a one or two minute mini-presentation about something that is not okay in your country but (probably) is acceptable or good in other places.

You should say:

- What the thing is
- What people's reactions to it might be
- Why it varies by country
- How important it is

And anything else that is relevant

Give a one or two minute mini-presentation about something that you think is probably okay or approved of in all cultures.

You should say:

- What the thing is
- What people's reactions to it might be
- Why you don't think it varies by country
- How important it is

And anything else that is relevant

Give a one or two minute mini-presentation about something that you think is probably disapproved of in all cultures.

You should say:

- What the thing is
- What people's reactions to it might be
- Why you don't think it varies by country
- How important it is

And anything else that is relevant