

Adverbs of frequency and times dice bluffing game

Take turns choosing times and adverbs of frequency below to make statements about your routines, using different language below each time. If you can't think of anything true to say, just use your imagination. After asking for more details, your partner will guess if your statement was true or not.

	A	B	C	D
6	always	always	... o'clock	... in the morning
5	usually	almost always	half past...	... in the afternoon
4	often	usually/ generally	(a) quarter past...	... in the evening
3	sometimes	occasionally	(a) quarter to...	... at night
2	rarely/ hardly ever	almost never	... past...	... at the weekend
1	never	never	... to...	... on weekdays

When your teacher stops you, ask about anything in that table that is difficult to use, working together as a class to use it in a statement about routines each time.

Do the same, but this time rolling a dice to decide which expressions you must use. Your teacher will tell you which columns above to use, or tell you if you can choose which columns to use each time.

-----cut-----

Take turns choosing times and adverbs of frequency below to make statements about your routines, using different language below each time. If you can't think of anything true to say, just use your imagination. After asking for more details, your partner will guess if your statement was true or not.

	A	B	C	D
6	always	always	... o'clock	... in the morning
5	usually	almost always	half past...	... in the afternoon
4	often	usually/ generally	(a) quarter past...	... in the evening
3	sometimes	occasionally	(a) quarter to...	... at night
2	rarely/ hardly ever	almost never	... past...	... at the weekend
1	never	never	... to...	... on weekdays

When your teacher stops you, ask about anything in that table that is difficult to use, working together as a class to use it in a statement about routines each time.

Do the same, but this time rolling a dice to decide which expressions you must use. Your teacher will tell you which columns above to use, or tell you if you can choose which columns to use each time.