Technology and quantifiers things in common quantifiers/ have (got)/ countable and uncountable/ technology vocabulary
New Cutting Edge Intermediate Module 8

Discuss your possessions and ask and answer questions to fill as many of the gaps below as you can with things you have in common with your partner(s).

- We both/ all have a/ an _____
- We both/ all have one or two _____
- We both/ all have a couple of _____
- We both/ all have a few _____
- We both/ all have few _____
- We both/ all have quite a lot of _____
- We both/ all have a lot of _____
- We both/ all have loads and loads of (= masses of/ tons of/ stacks of/ piles of) _____
- We both/ all have too much _____
- We both/ all have too many _____
- We both/ all have enough _____
- We both/ all have a bit of (= a little) _____
- We both/ all have a tiny bit of (= very little) _____
- We both/ all have plenty of (= more than enough) _____
- We both/ all have half a _____
- We both/ all have one and a half _____
- We both/ all have two thirds of a _____
- Neither/ None of us have much_____
- Neither/ None of us have any _____
- Neither/ None of us have enough (= We both/ all have a lack of) _____

When your teacher stops you, share one sentence you wrote and see if that is the same for other people in the class.

Ask about any sentence stems above you aren't sure how to use, trying to complete them as a class each time.

Look for quantifiers above which are only used with uncountable nouns, then compare as a class.

Change pairs. Do the same, but only talking about technology.

Use the similarities and differences that you discussed to guess who in your group is more of a technophobe, and who is more of a technophile.

Do the quiz in Cutting Edge Intermediate Module 8 and see if it agrees with your conclusions on who is more of a technophile, and who is more of a technophobe.

downloaded from https://tefltastic.com